100 Bakeries for Nottingham?

Tuesday 5th February 7.30

The team at Small Food Bakery, led by Owner/Baker Kimberley Bell, make breads, pastries, preserves and meals from scratch, buying ingredients directly from farmers and selling directly to customers from their kitchen in the former Douglas Road primary school. Their objective is to prove that small human scale food manufacturing and direct trade are what are needed to enable transition to a new more resilient kind of agriculture, which supports the biosphere while feeding everyone on the planet. Small Food Bakery won the 2018 BBC Food and Farming Award for best Food Producer in the UK.

William Booth and the Salvation Army

Tuesday 5th March 7.30

Julie Obermeyer is Curator of the Salvation Army Museum here in Nottingham and will talk about the history of the founder, William Booth and the organisation and how it came to be established in Sneinton in the City. Hear about the life and work of William Booth, Nottingham's most famous preacher and social worker.

'Fake News' – 18th 19th century elections literature

Tuesday 2nd April 7.30

Hannah Nicholson has studied 18th and 19th century elections and political culture. She has recently completed her doctoral thesis at the University of Nottingham, examining the vast range of posters, cartoons, and songs which were printed and distributed during the elections. This talk gives a flavour of these printed canvasses, and the bribery and corruption which accompanied many elections.

All are welcome and please bring your friends. The charge for the individual talks is £3 for NPRA members, £4 for non members.

Booking arrangements are through David Hill. Please confirm if you are or are not an NPRA member.
